The quintessential British psychedelic 60's legendary band The Zombies is touring again this year, celebrating their 2019 induction into The Rock & Roll Hall of Fame. They were the second U.K. band, after the Beatles to hit #1 in America. We are all familiar with and conjure fond memories whenever we hear their soft melodies and vocals be it "Time of the Season", "She's Not There" or "Tell Her No". The Zombies band is still lead by founding members Colin Blunstone & Rod Argent. They have recently released a new album "Still Got That Hunger" which hit the Billboard Top 100 the same time their critically acclaimed album "Odessey and the Oracle" re-entered the Billboard Top 100. They are performing nationwide and broadcasting on Jimmy Fallon, Conan, the Late Show with Stephen Colbert to name a few. You can expect to hear their iconic 60's hits - post-Zombies solo hits right up to their most recent releases from "Still Got That Hunger".
